By bus from Marburg central station:

Bus number 7 (direction to “Klinikum - Sonnenblick“) passes the central station every 20 minutes on working days. The drive to Hans-Meerwein-Strasse takes about 12 minutes (for more information visit www.rmv.de).

After arriving at the bus stop “Hans-Meerwein-Strasse“, please take the stairs and use the bridge to cross the street. From now on you have to go about 200 meters straight ahead, turn left at the third stoned path and you approach the main entrance of the “Mehrzweckgebäude“. A detailed description is made below on page 3 and 4.

By bus, coming from the city:

Coming from the city, you can use the bus line 7 in both directions, since this is a ring line. You can as well use the bus number 9, starting at the town hall (“Stadthalle“) and ending at the hospital, to get to Lahnberge.

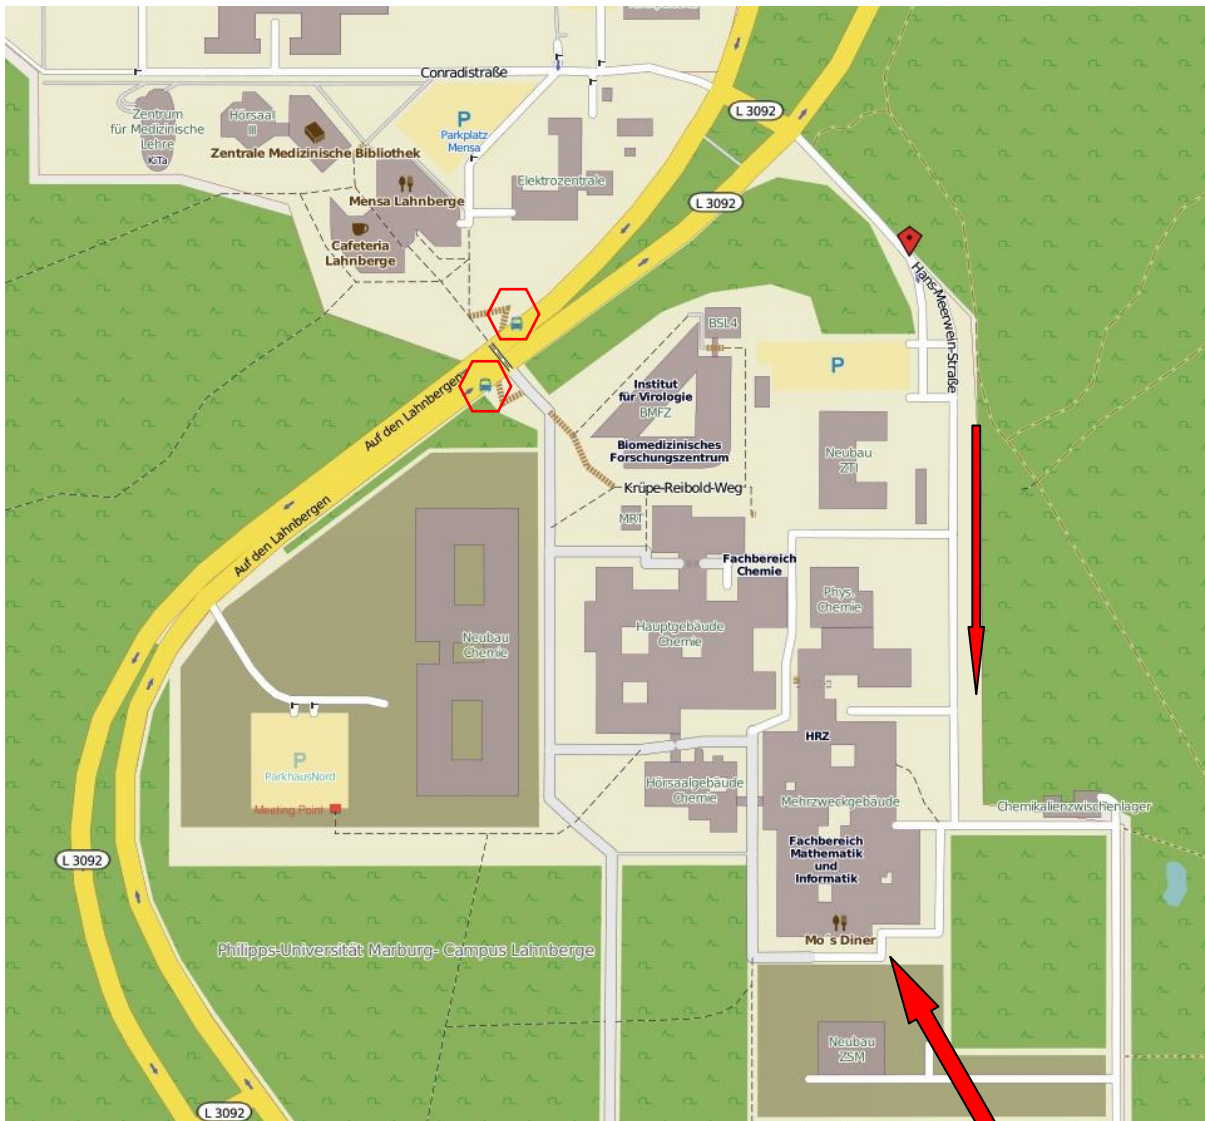

By car:

Coming from the north (Kassel), please take the street called “B3“ and leave it at the exit ramp called “Wehrda“ and turn right. You are now on “Neue Kasseler Straße“, please turn left at the traffic lights and drive 5 kilometers straight ahead. On the left side you will see the driveway to “Hans-Meerwein-Straße“.

Coming from the south (Gießen), please leave the “B3“ at the exit „Marburg-Süd“, then turn left and follow the signs to „Klinikum“ (hospital) or „Uni Lahnberge“. After 7 kilometers you will see “Hans-Meerwein-Straße“ on your right.

After arriving In Hans-Meerwein-Straße, drive straight to the barrier. Please press the button and speak to the person on the other end, who will open the barrier for you. Now follow the tarred street straight on until you see a gravel ground on your left where some cars are parked. You can stop your car here as well and go right to the entrance near the circular staircase.
